(ii) When the applicant does not possess an interest in immoveable property of such value, he must procure some person or persons to become his surety or sureties for the payment of the said amount.

(iii) When the sureties are a body of village residents, who bind themselves jointly and severally to the Government for the payment of the amount, their personal security may be accepted, provided that the sureties have executed a bond in the annexed Form D^A. In other cases, the security given by the surety or sureties must consist of the mortgage of immoveable property.

NOTIFICATION—1055Agri.

The 26th February 1901.—The following is published for general information.

F. A. SLACKE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 8, dated Mukhtesar, Naini Tal District, the 5th January 1901.

From—DR. ALFRED LINGARD, M.B., M.S., D.PH., Imperial Bacteriologist,
To—The Secretary to the Director-General, Indian Medical Service.

As desired by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of these Provinces during his visit to Mukhtesar in October-November last, to put forward a concise statement of success obtained with serum inoculations and modes of its operation, with a view to give it publicity and persuade the leading zamindars and talukdars to give prompt information concerning outbreaks of rinderpest, so that they may have their cattle inoculated before its ravages be felt: I have the honour to summarise in the following paragraphs the results obtained up to date, and request you to be good enough to submit this letter to the Chief Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

2. Serum simultaneous method.—This method, which has been very widely adopted in South Africa with most encouraging results, consists in injecting a small dose of protective serum on one side of the animal's body and at the same time a small dose of virulent rinderpest blood on the opposite side. A mild form of the disease is produced in 90 per cent. of the animals, with a loss of only one-half per cent and with the production of a permanent immunity, while the other 10 per cent. are also protected for some months even though they fail to react to the inoculation. In this connection I would point out that when a totally unprotected animal is subcutaneously inoculated with the most virulent blood, it shows no symptoms of disease previous to the 3rd, 4th or 5th day following inoculation, and then only does the temperature begin to rise. It is not until at least three days later viz., the 6th, 7th to 8th day that any symptoms of rinderpest become manifest. Therefore in practical field inoculations it has to be first ascertained whether the disease is already incubating in the animals about to be inoculated, as in such cases the simultaneous method of inoculation should not be employed, but serum alone injected in large quantities should diarrhœa not yet have supervened. If this latter symptom should have already made its appearance nothing can save the affected animal.

Experiments in the Laboratory.—The experiments carried out with the above mentioned method in this Laboratory prove that the animals which show temperature reactions with fairly marked symptoms are immune for upwards of one year, and there is no reason to doubt that it will last for a much longer time, if not for the life of the animals. On the other hand, the animals showing no temperature reaction or symptoms of the disease, partly due to the large doses of serum used, may wear off their immunity earlier than those which reacted to the simultaneous method, and this difficulty can be got over by reinoculating those animals, which have not reacted within a week or ten days of the simultaneous injection, with a second dose of from 1 to 10 c.c. of virulent blood.

Results in field inoculations.—The inoculations carried out by the serum manufactured at this Laboratory in Bareilly, Aligarh, Bulandshahr, and Dehra districts gave eminently successful results, and Mr. Holmes in his report from Madras states: "Out of 339 bullocks inoculated, nine died, but these deaths were attributed to old age and debilitated conditions, and to the fact that the animals were suffering from rinderpest previous to inoculation. I do not consider that any of the deaths occurred as a direct result of inoculations. I think it is safe to say that, as a result of these inoculations, rinderpest was at once checked and a heavy loss averted among the cattle."

By referring to Table C of the Assistant to the Inspector-General, Civil Veterinary Department's Annual Report for the year 1899-1900, we find that out of 1,730 animals inoculated by the above method, only three died after inoculation.

Hill cattle.—There is a great difference in the dose of serum required for the inoculation of hill cattle, as compared with that which is safe in plains animals. Notwithstanding that the serum simultaneous method by itself has not been found to be reliable in this particular breed, yet on re-inoculating these animals with from 1 to 10 c.c. of virulent blood during the seven or eight days following the injection by the simultaneous method, protection has been brought about and an active immunity conferred.

Serum alone.—The use of serum alone causes no reactionary fever, and it affords immediate full immunity, and is very useful in the case of dairy animals and pregnant cows, where it is desirable that the milk supply should not be interfered with, and no cases of abortion take place. The temporary immunity given by injecting with serum alone is sufficient to protect the animals throughout an outbreak. The experiments carried out at Mukhtesar proved that the animals injected with 10, 20, 50, 100, and 150 c.c. per 600lbs. body weight, were found immune on the 43rd, 76th, 103rd, and 164th days, respectively, after serum injections, and in each case when tested by the introduction of virulent blood subcutaneously, only a slight temperature reaction followed, clearly showing that the animals submitted to the above test were perfectly protected, and would remain so for a much longer period than those stated above.

4. Manufacture of serum.—During the year 1900, 464,765 c.c. of protective rinderpest serum were produced at Mukhtesar, and 119,880 c.c. have been issued to the Veterinary Superintendents, etc., of different provinces in India. At the present time we have 33,673 doses tested and ready for despatch on receipt of a telegram, but in addition some 50,000 doses are already in stock, and only require testing, a matter of two weeks' duration. The manufacture of rinderpest protective serum will be continued at the Imperial Bacteriological Laboratory, and a depôt might be opened in the North-Western Provinces, as has been arranged for by Government for the supply of the Bombay, Bengal, and other Provinces so that the serum may be readily obtained when required.

Excise.

THE HON'BLE MR. C. W. BOLTON, C.S.I., Member in charge.

IN exercise of the powers conferred on them by section 35 of the Bengal Excise Act, VII of 1878, the Board of Revenue are pleased to make the following rules for the importation of charas from the Punjab into Bengal, in supersession of the rules in Section XXI of the Excise Manual, 1891:—

Permit required for all importations.

1. A licensed vendor of charas intending to import the drug into Bengal shall obtain a permit in Form No. 121 in Appendix A from the Collector of the district to which the charas is to be imported, on prepayment of half the duty referred to in rule 5, together with a fee of Rs. 2 for the permit.

Permit in duplicate form.

2. The permits are printed in duplicate—one part for delivery to the importer and the second part for retention in the office of the Collector of the importing district.

Procedure in the exporting district.

3. The importer, or his agent, on arrival in the district from which the drug is to be exported, shall, within the time allowed in the permit, present it to the officer in charge of a bonded warehouse and apply for and obtain the requisite pass under the rules in force in the Punjab, a copy of the pass being at the same time sent by the District Officer to the Collector of the importing district. After delivery from the warehouse, the charas shall be immediately taken to the nearest railway station by the importer or his agent, and shall be consigned by railway direct to the Collector of the importing district, to whom the railway receipt shall be sent by post in a registered cover

Examination of consignment on its arrival.

4. On arrival of the consignment at the railway station in the importing district, the Collector will depute an Excise Officer to take delivery of it and produce it before the Excise Deputy Collector for examination, weighment, and comparison with the pass received from the exporting district in the Punjab. The Deputy Collector shall see whether the package or packages are securely packed and sealed, or whether bulk has been broken during transit or the consignment has been tampered with in any other way.

Time of paying duty.

5. Duty shall be charged at the rate of Rs. 12 per seer, one-half of which must be paid at the time of taking out the permit, and the balance after the examination and weighment of the drug by the Excise Deputy Collector of the district in which the drug is to be sold or stored, as the case may be.

Charas to be made over to the importer after levy of duty.

6. After examination by the Excise Deputy Collector and realisation of the balance of duty, the drug will be made over to the importer for sale, an intimation being at once sent by post to the officer in charge of the exporting district of the due arrival of the consignment and realisation of the full duty on the same.

Importer to apply for extension of time if necessary.

7. If the charas does not arrive, and the pass be not returned within the time for which it is current, the importer must apply to the Collector of the importing district for an extension of time, failing which the charas in transit will be liable to confiscation as being unprotected by a pass.

Confiscation and penalties.

8. The whole of a consignment will be liable to be dealt with under section 75 of the Bengal Excise Act, and the importer subjected to other penalties of the Excise laws if he imports a quantity greater or less than that shown to be the quantity covered by the pass, unless the difference is fully explained and full duty paid on the excess or deficiency, as the case may be.

Importer to keep an account.

9. Every importer of charas will be bound to keep an account in Form No. 122, Appendix A, of the quantity received and expended by him. The form is intended for use in his dealings with licensed vendors only.

License required for retail sale.

If, however, he wishes to dispose of the drug to persons other than licensed vendors, he shall take out a separate retail license for the retail vend in Form No. 123. The retail license will be granted either under the auction or the fixed license-fee system, as the Board may generally or especially direct.

Pass for transport to a retail shop in the district.

10. If the importer disposes of any charas to a licensed vendor of the district in which the drug has been imported, he shall furnish such licensed dealer with a pass in Form No. 123A., Appendix, under his own signature in order to protect the drug in transit to the retail shop.

Pass for transit to another district.

11. If the importer wishes to dispose of any charas to a licensed dealer of another district, he shall apply for and obtain a pass from the Collector of his own district in order to protect the drug in transit to such other district. Such passes will be granted in duplicate free of charge in Form No. 123B of Appendix A. One part shall be given to the importer and other sent by post to the Collector of the district for which the drug is intended.

Register of permits.

12. A register of permits for the importation of charas shall be kept in the Collector's Office in Form No. 124, Appendix A.

13. These rules apply only in the case of charas imported from the Punjab, and shall take effect from the 1st March 1901.
